

A celebration of Earth Day

Saturday, April 20th • 10 a.m. — 4:30 p.m.

Farmer for the Morning • Goat hikes • Pasture walk • Tree planting

Start your Earth Day weekend with a visit to Wolfe's Neck Center!
We'll be highlighting the importance of caring for our environment in these programs throughout the day:

10 AM – Farmer for the Morning – $5 per person – Join us for a special Farmer for the Morning to celebrate Earth Day. We will do our usual morning chores with the goats, sheep, chickens, and other livestock – but lend a hand to mother earth by celebrating spring and doing some planting in our Education Garden! We'll all take a planted seed home to watch grow! Recommended for ages 2-5.

12 PM – Plant a Tree – Free! – We'll celebrate Earth Day by planting some fruit trees in our orchards. Join our fruit & vegetable farmers as we learn about the benefits of fruit trees and how they give back to the soil and the earth. Wear boots in case it's muddy. All ages program.

1 PM – Spring Pasture Walk – $5 per person – Join us for a special walk through our organic pastures as we see how they're looking before the grazing season begins. We will explore the different grasses and plants that are getting greener by the day, and see how last years 'cow pies' are decomposing and giving back to the pastures themselves. This program is best suited for adult learners.

2 PM & 3:30 PM – Goat Hike – $5 per person – Join the goat herd! We'll meet at our Wishcamper Livestock Education barn and browse the trails through the woods on a half-mile loop with a few of our curious goats. All ages program.
